

Antique Architects Desk, Adjustable, Georgian, Mahogany, Draughtsman Circa 1810

DESCRIPTION

Our Stock # 18.5940

This is an antique architect's desk with adjustable top. English, Georgian, mahogany draughtsman's or cartographer's desk dating to the early 19th century, circa 1810.

- A versatile and charming architect or cartographer's desk
- Fashioned from rich mahogany with grain interest throughout
- Of quality craftsmanship with good, consistent colour in the wax polished finish
- Adjustable writing surface features a movable paper stay
- Crossbanded border, moulded edge profile and inset writing surface
- Finished in a British green, leather skiver highlighted with gold tooling
- Large over-knee drawer to front dressed with turned pulls
- Fitted with working lock and key, through brass keyhole lining
- Field panel doors to each side, fitted with brass locks, key absent
- Cupboard doors reveal a suite of nine document compartments

(d:65cm [25.5"], h:49cm [19.25"])

Search London Fine for #18.5940 , or scan the QR code for more photos and details

DIMENSIONS

Max Width: 103cm (40.5")

Max Depth: 70cm (27.5")

Max Height: 83cm (32.75")

Knee Hole Width: 46cm (18")

Knee Hole Depth: 68.5cm (27")

Knee Hole Height: 65.5cm (25.75")

