Antique Scroll Arm Chair, English, Mahogany, Buckle Back, Seat, William IV, 1835

DESCRIPTION

Our Stock # 18.6945
This is an antique scroll arm chair. An English, mahogany buckle-back drop-in seat, dating to the late William IV period, circa 1835.

- Delightful example of transitional furniture from the Regency taste to William IV
- Displays a desirable aged patina
- Select mahogany shows fine grain interest and rich caramel hues
- Traditional, quality upholstery in good order
- Attractive buckle back sinuously shaped with ornate scrolled lower rail
- Serpentine scroll arms terminate in a flourish
- Drop-in seat traditionally stuffed and upholstered in rich, ivy green velour - straightforward to recover
- Raised upon turned baluster legs to front and gently splayed, square section rear legs

This is a superb antique scroll arm chair, whose sinuous form and quality craftsmanship offer copious appeal. The drop-in seat offers potential to be reupholstered to individual taste. Solid joints and construction, delivered waxed, polished and ready for the home.
