

Late Victorian Oak Antique Stick Stand, c.1890

DESCRIPTION

Our Stock # LFA-1356 This is an antique, Victorian stick or umbrella stand dating to c.1890. Beautifully made in English oak showing deep russet tones with a desirable aged patina, this stand is raised on turned feet and features a removable tin drip tray for easy emptying. The ring turned legs continue up to box section at the frieze which is beautifully relief carved featuring a reciprocating arched detail with foliate embellishment. To the end panels a central rosette motif stands prominent. The upper section is usefully divided into three sections and cornered by ball finials. A country antique with an enduring purpose and desirability. Solid joints and construction, delivered waxed, polished and ready for the home.
